Ike Believes Recession Test Due In March

Eisenhower Urges End To Monopoly

By Roger D. Greene

Washington (AP) — President Eisenhower, reporting "mighty increases" in America's atomic strength, asked Congress yesterday for authority to lift an eight-year secrecy veil so that U. S. allies can be told how to use atomic weapons on the battlefield.

The President, in a special 3,700-word message, also proposed to end the government's present monopoly over the peacetime use of atomic energy for industrial purposes — with safeguards against the growth of private monopolies.

U. S. industry, he said, "should be encouraged to assume a substantially more significant role" in the development of atomic power.

Declaring that secrecy restrictions of the 1946 atomic security law have been outmoded by the realities of 1954, Eisenhower requested numerous changes "for the purpose of strengthening the defense and economy of the United States and of the free world."

The President's proposals, which he described as being of "the utmost importance to the nation's defense and welfare," seemed likely to stir debate on Capitol Hill where some Congress members have expressed misgivings about disclosing U. S. atomic secrets even to this country's oldest and closest allies.

Several legislators have suggested it might be difficult to ease present restrictions without leaving loopholes for espionage.

Sen. Hickenlooper (R-Iowa), vice chairman of the Senate House Atomic Committee, said Eisenhower's message warranted "serious attention," and he predicted: "I think Congress will approve proper legislation, properly safeguarded."

Sen. Knowland of California, the Senate Republican leader, said he is confident the Senate-House committee will give "high priority" to the President's requests.

In general terms, Eisenhower spoke of authority "to exchange with nations participating in defensive arrangements with the United States such tactical information as is essential to the development of defense plans and to the training of personnel for atomic warfare."

He also spoke of divulging "certain limited information on the use of atomic weapons," thus implying that the information would be limited to "use" and that actual know-how on the fashioning of such weapons would remain secret.

Cole Reveals Destruction Caused By First H-Bomb, Hints Later Developments

Chicago (AP) — A congressional atomic authority hinted yesterday that the United States may have increased the destructive potential attained in its first full-scale hydrogen explosion and is working toward development of a versatile line of hydrogen weapons.

Rep. W. Sterling Cole (R-NY) revealed officially for the first time that the 1952 thermonuclear test in the Marshall Islands completely obliterated the test island in the Eniwetok Atoll and gashed a crater in the ocean floor a full mile in diameter and 175 feet deep at its lowest point.

He said the explosion crater was large enough to hold 140 structures the size of the nation's capitol.

Cole said Russia soon will have the capacity to hit the United States with a crippling hydrogen and atomic blow. But, he added, it is "entirely within our capacity" to produce "tens of thousands" of atomic anti-aircraft defense missiles as "a barrier of atomic firepower."

Cole, chairman of the Senate-House Atomic Energy Committee, said the 1952 American hydrogen blast, if exploded over a modern city, would have:

Blanketed an area covering 300 square miles.

Dulles Denounces Russia's New German Plan As 'Feeble' Substitute For Unification

Berlin (AP) — Russia proposed last night a Big Four agreement on the strength and armament of all police in divided Germany, and creation of all-German committees to promote better relations between the East and West republics.

U. S. Secretary of State Dulles said he would consider this "rather feeble substitute" for the West's plan of German unification by free elections. The British and French foreign ministers also agreed to discuss today this new Russian "little solution" for the gigantic German problem.

Soviet Foreign Minister Molotov offered his surprise motions after failing again to budge the West from its refusal to remove troops from Germany in six months for the sake of "European security."

The troop withdrawal scheme was denounced immediately by Dulles as "what we did under very analogous circumstances in Korea immediately preceding 1950."

"Our withdrawal in that case did not produce security—it produced war," the American said.

Molotov's police proposal followed bitter charges across the conference table in the Soviet embassy that both the East and West were creating big aggressive German armies.

"The United States has very reliable information to reveal that East German military personnel now total 140,300 men under arms," Dulles said.

"Of this number, 100,000 are in the ground forces with an additional 25,000 serving in security formations. There are seven organized divisions of which three are mechanized."

"Air forces constitute 600 jet fighters manned and trained by 5,000 effective."

"These forces are commanded by ex-officers of the Nazi Wehrmacht and the SS Nazi elite guard. They are additional to 100,000 East German police."

"I can assure the Soviet foreign minister that there is nothing comparable in West Germany."

Employment Hits Record Level Here

Employment in the Pocono Mountains region hit 11,700 on Jan. 31, completing a banner year, according to Carl Denz, acting manager of the East Stroudsburg office, PSES.

Denz yesterday termed 1953 as the best year for employment in local history, pointing to several major construction projects and a successful resort season as contributing factors.

While current demand for workers is low, the total shows 700 more persons were at work Jan. 31 than on the same date last year.

Predictions are for the current lull to continue until April, then pick up at a steady pace with indications pointing to 1954 as a good year for employment in the region.

Peak employment was reached in July when 17,500 persons were at work, Denz said.

The current slowdown is due to completion of the three major bridges across the Delaware River, curtailing of outside construction due to weather conditions, and a temporary lull in employment in the garment and textile industries.

Late last year the employment figures dropped considerably, Denz said. He attributed this chiefly to the completion of the bridge projects and curtailing and closing of resorts and hotels for the winter months.

Once Spring is here, service business, including the resorts, will show a steady climb in employment and with the warmer weather or will bring better conditions for outside construction, Denz predicted. These two factors are expected to offset the present unemployment and send the region into another successful employment season.

Manufacturers are expected to experience decreased employment until Spring. Most of the layoffs now being issued are of a temporary nature, Denz said.

At the end of January, 2,478 compensable claims were checked through the East Stroudsburg office, Denz added. This is an increase of 117 over Jan. 31, 1953.

Waiting weeks for unemployment compensation also increased on Jan. 31 over the same date in 1953. Statistics show 666 waiting weeks compiled for last month, compared to January, 1953.

The picture showing that more persons are employed locally at present than this time last year is indicated in the number of new and reopened claims. On Jan. 31, 1953, a total of 860 claims were either filed for the first time or reopened. This year claims dropped to 662.

This outbreak was the most serious in the Communist campaign to give an extra push to the Christian Democrat premier's steady government, which is heading for a parliamentary showdown in about a week in a vote of confidence. Scelba will start the ball rolling in the political fray today when he presents his pro-Western, mildly left-of-center program to the Senate.

The plan was approved as part of a general tax revision program, but it was not included in President Eisenhower's 24-point blueprint for the overhaul. It would boost the total annual tax reduction under the program from about two billion dollars, as estimated by the Treasury, to more than 2½ billion.

The value of all the goods and services produced during the year reached 307½ billion dollars, a figure 3½ per cent higher than 1952's 248 billion dollars.

The national income was 307½ billions, the department said, compared with just over 291½ billions in 1952. After taxes the people had nearly 218 billions to spend compared with 235 billions in 1952.

House Committee Approves Tax Cuts For Pensioners

Washington (AP) — The House Ways and Means Committee yesterday overrode Treasury officials and Chairman Daniel A. Reed (R-NY) and approved a broad tax cut for retired persons, amounting to about 300 million dollars a year.

The plan, adopted 17 to 8, would exempt up to $1,200 of annual retirement income from personal income taxes. This would be piled on top of other exemptions and deductions already allowed.

Authorities estimated more than 1,125,000 retired people would benefit now. Many others would get the reduction as they retire in the future. The change would go into effect for 1954 tax bills, due early next year.

By a 14-11 vote, the committee turned down an effort by Reed and some other Republicans, backed by Treasury officials, to limit the tax reduction to persons over 65 and to those with income of $6,000 or less.

Authorities said this limitation would have resulted in a revenue loss of substantially less than 100 million dollars, as compared with 300 million under the plan approved.

"I believe that the real hardship area today involves retired people who are dependent on modest pensions for their livelihood," Reed said in a statement, after the closed-door committee session.

"I personally hoped to limit this relief to small taxpayers. I did not believe that this additional relief should be extended to wealthy taxpayers."

Treasury officials said they supported Reed's position. Reed and seven other Republicans voted against the bill in its final form. All 10 Democrats and seven Republicans supported it.

The plan was approved as part of a general tax revision program, but it was not included in President Eisenhower's 24-point blueprint for the overhaul. It would boost the total annual tax reduction under the program from about two billion dollars, as estimated by the Treasury, to more than 2½ billion.

Senate Votes Court Review Of Treaties

Washington (AP) — The Senate wrote into the Bricker amendment last night a White House-supported proposal to make all treaties signed since adoption of the constitution and all future treaties subject to court review on their constitutionality. The vote for the proposal was 44 to 43.

On a vote closely following party lines the chamber adopted an amendment offered by the Senate GOP leadership to a proposal by Sen. Bricker (R-Ohio) to limit treaty-making powers.

Sen. Knowland of California, the GOP floor leader, said the so-called "perfecting" amendment was acceptable to President Eisenhower.

Bricker supported the change, although Eisenhower has criticized Bricker's own proposed constitutional amendment on the grounds that it would interfere with his authority to deal with other nations and might upset the balance of power between government branches.

Manion Fired For Opposing Eisenhower

Washington (AP) — President Eisenhower has fired Clarence E. Manion, former dean of the Notre Dame University Law School, as chairman of the 25-member Commission on Intergovernmental Relations. It was disclosed yesterday.

Manion, 57, a Democrat whom Eisenhower had named to the post, attributed his ouster to a recent series of speeches he has made in support of the administration-opposed Bricker amendment to curb the President's treaty-making powers.

The White House had no comment.

Eisenhower created the commission last Aug. 18 to make a seven-month study of federal and state functions to "eliminate friction, duplication and waste" in such fields as taxation and aid programs.

Employment Upturn Seen Next Month

By Douglas B. Cornell

Washington (AP) — President Eisenhower said yesterday that if employment fails to pick up in March it will be a warning of economic trouble calling for government action.

One of the first measures that might be considered, Eisenhower told a news conference, is a cut in taxes to spur consumer buying. That, he said, is something that will be used if necessary.

March, the President said, should be a sort of key month in determining whether the country actually is in a recession because employment usually begins to pick up then.

If things develop to the point that a major downturn appears likely, he said, he will not hesitate to use every single weapon available to the government to head it off. He recalled he had said that repeatedly and he tapped his fingers on a desk and stressed his words to give the idea renewed emphasis.

At the same time, Eisenhower said he doesn't want to send the government on a wild course of action.

Since he planned to leave by plane for a five-day vacation at Palm Springs, Calif., shortly after the conference, Eisenhower hustled into the meeting three minutes ahead of schedule. And he gave reporters a big grin and fervent thank you when they broke the session up earlier than usual.

In addition to the economic outlook, the conference ranged rapidly over these additional points:

Butler—Secretary of Agriculture Benson's decision to cut price supports for butter April 1 certainly had his tacit approval in advance. He said the step has been under consideration since last March and he has no thought now that it should be reconsidered in the light of complaints from farm state congressmen.

Coffee—The government's investigation of high coffee prices is proceeding, the President volunteered, and it is designed to find out if there are any road blocks between suppliers and consumers. He said it doesn't mean that the government is looking into internal affairs of other countries and he can see no possibility that the inquiry might offend South American nations.

TVA—Eisenhower said he is disturbed and fearful when he sees any great section of the country saying it can't expand its industry without federal help. He knows of no reason, he said, why Memphis, Tenn., couldn't do something for itself if it wanted to.

Told that several members of Congress are saying TVA will be crippled because the administration budget includes no new funds for TVA power development, the President said the government is taking a long look at the situation and he feels we are pursuing a very dangerous course when local communities rely on the government to assume the responsibility and cost of such development. But he told reporters they could be very sure that we are not going to destroy TVA.

Indochina—The President said this country isn't trying to support colonialism by any country in Indochina and he sees a definite distinction between aiding anti-Communists there and backing colonialists. He said, too, that the fact that Lt. Gen. John Wilson O'Daniel is replacing Maj. Gen. Thomas J. H. Trappell as head of the U. S. military mission in Indochina doesn't mean he is critical of the way Vietnamese troops are being trained.

Two Canadian Trains Collide

Montreal (AP) — One man was killed and 73 other passengers, including a number of Americans, were injured early yesterday when two Canadian Pacific Railway passenger trains collided at St. Clet, 35 miles west of here.

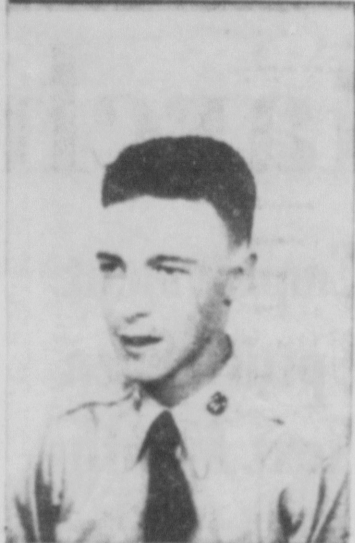

W. E. Casselman of Toronto was trapped and killed in a washroom when the second section of the overnight Toronto-Montreal train plowed into the rear of the stationary first section. The first section had stopped to allow a freight to move on to a siding.

Jobless Dole Claims Decline During Year

Claims for unemployment insurance benefits in the Pocono Mountains area declined almost $100,000 last year compared with 1950, Carl J. Denz, acting manager of the East Stroudsburg PSES office reported yesterday.

Area construction projects, including the three major bridges across the Delaware River, and Tobyhanna accounted for the largest share in the decline of persons seeking and receiving claims.

Based on an estimated weekly claim of $21, a total of 13,405 compensable claims paid about $282,000 last year, Denz said.

In 1952, weekly unemployment checks averaged about $20.80. That year 18,681 claims were paid for a total of $387,000.

VanHorn Posts $500 Bail To Gain Release

The second of four men charged with turning in two false alarms in East Stroudsburg Monday morning was released from Monroe County jail Tuesday night.

Justice of the Peace Herbert Bonser, East Stroudsburg, said $500 bail was posted for the release of Eugene Van Horn, 18, of E. Broad St., East Stroudsburg.

Earlier in the day William Schoonover, 22, of Stroudsburg (HD), was released on $1,000 bail.

Van Horn and David Miller, 19, of 28 N. Fifth St., Stroudsburg, signed statements before East Stroudsburg police admitting they set off two alarms. They implicated Schoonover and James Reynolds, 30, of 428 Birch St., East Stroudsburg, as accomplices, but both denied the charge.

Reynolds and Miller still are in jail, the former in default of $1,000 bail and Miller, $500 bail.

Milo R. Rasely Honored At Rites

Rev. Roger C. Stinson officiated. Interment was made in Laurelwood Cemetery. Pallbearers were Herbert G. Bonser, Russell Schellenberger, William Metzgar, Robert Rockefeller, Horace G. Walters and Evan Kintz.

Reverse Marking On Thermostats Cause Of Grief

Pittsburgh (AP) — Occupants of the City-County Building have been freezing in the winter and roasting in the summer for 25 years.

Yesterday they found out why. They turned up thermostats in frosty weather, but the higher they turned the colder it got. In the summer, turning down the thermostats increased the heat. Maintenance men were baffled. It took Conrad J. Aurel, a building inspector, to supply the answer.

"Right-handed covers on left-handed thermostats," he said. The thermostats had been marked in reverse—cold when it should read hot and vice versa. So, the county is going to spend $155 for 50 left-handed thermostat covers.

The first Nobel Prize award were given in 1901.

Growth of An Institution

In the year 1934, some 300 communities in the United States shook off the doldrums of the then current depression long enough to observe something called Brotherhood Day.

The observance caused only a ripple of response in the participating communities and it received virtually no national recognition.

But to a group of men and women banded together in an organization known as the National Conference of Christians and Jews, that day in April 1934 was exciting and inspirational. And in Denver, Colo., a Catholic priest, Monsignor Hugh McMenamin was seeing the fulfillment of an idea he had almost casually proposed to the National Conference, two years previously.

Those who worked to promote that First Brotherhood Day saw it become a full week's observance in 1940, and four years later, more than 2,000 communities, among which for the first time every state was included, celebrated Brotherhood Week.

Today, annual observance has taken on all the character of an American institution with more than 10,000 communities participating. Since 1940, the Brotherhood Week dates have always been the full week that includes Washington's Birthday—this year February 21 to 28.

Although Brotherhood Week is now a definite part of the American scene, it is a paradox that comparatively little is known about its sponsor, the National Conference of Christians and Jews.

The National Conference of Christians and Jews with a professional staff of experts in the field of human relations is a non-profit organization, entirely supported by voluntary contributions. As an organization, it keeps well in the background performing its task of fighting prejudice and bigotry through a vast network of community organizations, religious groups, educational institutions, labor-management groups, and all forms of mass media of communication.

Operating on the basis that men of ill will still roam the earth, National Conference is engaged in a nation-wide inventory of our moral and spiritual resources for brotherhood. In each of the working categories the Conference enlists the action and voluntary support of lay leaders—that means all of us—in both its program and consultation services.

And therein lies its strength and effectiveness as its policies and the direct applications of its work are in the hands of its lay leadership.

Medical Care For Needy

The Hospital Association of Pennsylvania has joined the Pennsylvania Pharmaceutical Assn. and The Medical Society of Pennsylvania in opposing the plan now in experiment in Snyder County of giving all public assistance recipients a monthly sum with which to budget for their medical expenses.

All these organizations are against spread of the test plan to other counties.

County Boards of Assistance instituted the test because of concern over rising costs of medical care. Fact remains they must meet the challenge of adequate medical care.

The idea of taking an amount of money and dividing it among both well and sick, rather than giving it to the ill looks like insurance in reverse.

The Once Over

Exercise!

President Eisenhower has just presented a medal to Sir Edmund Hillary for his ascent of Mt. Everest. In a way this was a case of one mountain climber to another. Like has been scaling some icy places for the past thirteen months, doing it without a rope. An account of his exploits is easily imagined.

Chapter I. Had easy job on firm ground but was persuaded to take off from Morning Side Heights, N. Y., for dramatic attempt to climb the Why-Taus Mountain Range and scale Mt. Never-Rest in the wild Potomac country. Established base camp on lower ledge of Pennsylvania Avenue. Heavy weather set in at once, some of which seemed to have been arranged by human hands.

II. Storms heaviest since the Smith, Landon and Dewey expeditions. Had hardly begun ascent before charges that Tensing Wilson, his Sherpa guide, had interest in hemp business, forced him to sell his rope and depend upon an old proxy in case of fall.

III.—Raging blizzard impeded progress up icy slope. Democrats were using automatic blower to mix rocks with snowflakes. At this point expedition lost one of its climbers, Wayne Morse. First believed he had slipped and fallen down mountain. Found he had performed deliberate ski jump for own amusement.

IV.—Reached Budget Balance Ledge. Discovered previous Mt. Never-Rest expeditions had dug craters and covered them with thin layers of snow to make further progress difficult. Sherpa companion Humphrey gave great encouragement by constant reciting of "A youth who bore mid snow and ice a banner with the strength of a device." "Excellence!" Found our oxygen equipment had been sabotaged. No clue except single word "Snollygosters!" scrawled in snow. Left hand frostbitten by Jackson Day dinner speeches.

V.—Climbed to second camp at Mt. Economy after tough trip through Taxation Gully. Sherpa guides Benson, Wilson and Humphrey both had feet frozen by drop of temperature from 10 below zero to 20 below Paul Douglas. Heavy undergar replacements sabotaged by National Democratic Committee and opposition press.

VI. Encountered howling gales in fight to reach Balanced Budget Cliff. Members of expedition denounced bad weather in forceful language and were accused of unnecessary roughness, unfair accusations and impolite unladylike language. Received radio message demanding that I repudiate all violent references to obstacles making it tough for me.

VII. Struggled upward against charges that my expedition would bring on avalanches and that my anti-avalanche program is unsound.

VIII. Foot low but criticism high. Opposition groups claimed my oxygen masks favor only the rich. Shall continue to press for the peaks but wishing for the comparative restfulness of European army command!

IX.—King Farouk's belongings are being auctioned off and we wonder who got his toboggan slide? . . . Also to whom his VIP card, Roman costume and money-incinerator were knocked down . . . The Academy of TV Arts has given the award to Omnibus, over Show of Shows, Toast of the Town and Colgate Comedy programs, as the best variety show of the year . . . This is like holding that the Plantarium is more fun than Guys & Dolls . . . We suggest that Omnibus do a two hour program explaining its own complete surprise at topping Jimmy Durante, Tellaulah Bankhead, Eddie Cantor, Sid Caesar and Imogene Coca . . . East German Communies have barred Mickey Mouse as an enemy influence . . . And agent of Hole-in-the-Wall Street, no doubt . . . President Eisenhower was down in Georgia on a quail hunt . . . His approach shots were bad and he lost several holes to quail through gripping . . . Hialeah's big races are to be telecast during the next few weeks . . . The pink flamingos have been rehearsing a ballet and we understand one of them has even learned to juggle . . . William Faulkner is one of the great story writers of the times, but he hasn't come close to mastering the TV technique . . .

Robert S. Allen Reports

Rhee North Korea Attack Project Highly Explosive

Washington — The U. S. is racing furiously against time to prevent the eruption of more fighting in the Far East.

Two new highly explosive situations are developing there.

That's the real reason why General John H. H. Hull flew to Washington.

His startling disclosures that President Syngman Rhee offered to send a South Korean division to reinforce the French in Indo-China is only a segment of Hull's grim report.

The Far Eastern commander also told President Eisenhower and the Joint Chiefs of Staff the following:

Rhee has an elaborate plan under which the ROK army would launch a major offensive against the Reds in North Korea to compel the Chinese to drastically reduce the large amounts of arms and other supplies they are now giving the Communist Vietnam.

The Chinese Fourth Field Army, which has been training near the Indo-China border for months, is being reorganized into an "Aid Vietnam Volunteer Corps." This is an extremely disquieting development, as Peiping organized similar "Volunteer" forces prior to intervening in the Korean conflict.

The Chinese have steadily increased their military concentrations on the Indo-China border since the end of the Korean fighting. Since January 1, they have added upwards of 100 Russian MIG-15 jet fighters, shifted from Manchurian bases near the Yalu River. Also, the Chinese have greatly expanded their flow of supplies to the Vietnam and the training of these puppet troops.

As a result of this powerful assistance, Vietnam's combat strength is estimated at a record high of 385,000—an increase of nearly 50,000 since last fall.

President Rhee stressed two points in urging his latest plan to resume the war in Korea. He claims that ROK units will do all the ground fighting, and the U. S. only will have to provide them with the necessary equipment and supplies plus air and naval support.

The Chinese have withdrawn at least seven divisions from North Korea and their over-all strength there is under 900,000 for the first time in several years.

Rhee is asserting complete confidence in the ability of the ROK divisions to smash through the massive fortifications built by the Reds. He contends the reduced strength of the Chinese will appreciably help the ROKs.

General Hull has strong doubts about that.

Rhee's "diversionary" plan also contemplates a simultaneous barrage of raids against the Chinese mainland by the Nationalist forces on Formosa. These attacks, as in the case of his proposed offensive, would also be supported by the American Air Force and Navy.

The aged South Korean ruler told General Hull that this plan would "quickly relieve" the perilous situation in Indo-China.

Broken Promise — A broken promise by Marshal Tito was responsible for the collapse of that proposed Trieste settlement and the bloody riots that resulted from this fiasco.

That's what Undersecretary of State W. Bedell Smith declared at a private meeting with a House Appropriations Subcommittee. The one-time Ambassador to Russia and Chief of Staff to President Eisenhower during World War II made the blunt charge in response to questions.

Representative John Rooney, N. Y., former Democratic chairman of the Subcommittee, asked Smith "to bring us up to date on the Trieste situation."

"Specifically," explained Rooney, "I would like to know why such a controversial plan was proposed just before the Italian election if we weren't sure it would be accepted. Recent events in Italy have demonstrated that the timing was apparently a terrible blunder on our part."

"We had every reason to believe that the Trieste solution would be accepted by both sides," replied Smith. "That's why it was proposed."

"What happened?" asked Rooney.

"Tito backed down. He broke his promise," said Smith. "He had given us full assurances that he would accept the proposal. But the reaction in Yugoslavia against the plan was much greater than Tito had expected, and he had to publicly oppose it or lose face. So he broke his promise and came out against the proposal."

"He certainly left us holding the bag in Italy," said Rooney. "If Italy, by any chance, should fall into the clutches of the Communists, that blunder on Trieste, however it happened, will have a lot to do with that tragedy."

Try and Stop Me

—by Bennet Cerf

Formidable Leopold Stokowski, orchestra conductor of the first rank, relaxed long enough after one concert to admit that, while strolling along a path in the Rockies one vacation day, he suddenly noticed a huge grizzly ambulating toward him. "What did you do?" asked Stokowski's hostess. The conductor answered grandly, "I cried to him, 'Halt!' And what did the bear do?" she persisted. The maestro looked surprised and concluded simply, "He halted, of course."

George Sokolsky Says...

Youth Today Has Become Accustomed To Regimentation, Too Many Have Seen War

The tragic and ugly death of Max Bodenheim could not but stimulate my memory of the early days of Greenwich Village where I used to spend nights listening to profound if alcoholic conversations on the new art, the new poetry, the new life.

My own hangout was a restaurant called Polly's, the genius of which was Hippolyte Havel, brilliant in conversation, talking for his dinner and grog, an inspiration to young minds. Havel dressed in an amazing fashion—black corduroy trousers, tan shoes, a red flannel shirt and a flat straw hat. He carried an ebony cane with an ivory top.

There was another place run by a lady, who became Hendrik vanLoon's wife, which was patronized by more serious-minded men and women who had fallen upon the recent works of Sigmund Freud.

How Polly conducted her business, I do not know, unless she earned enough from the curious to subsidize the habitues. Among them, those who had money, paid; those who had only hopes, ate and drank on Polly's charity.

Life was good and rich in those days of poverty because the hopes were high and sure. All of us expected to be outstanding figures in our chosen fields. Sometimes an artist sold a picture to a saloon-keeper on Sixth Avenue who made a practice of subsidizing the new art. We had lived through Ibsen, Shaw and Brecht; we knew Hauptmann and Sudermann. Some of us were followers of Prince Peter Kropotkin and others of Francisco Ferrer. Karl Marx was not a giant among us.

Many a night, after the sightseers had gone their way, the little world of prospective writers, painters, actors, would argue into late hours on some philosophy of human conduct. And the main theme was freedom. We were all in rebellion and we all sought freedom.

It is difficult to recapture those moments. Many of us had rebelled against our home environments, against parental restraints, against a rough father or a shrewish mother. Many of us wanted to risk much, to take fierce chances with life, to rush into situations that, seemed impossible. Many of us, who had rebelled from too much love at home, searched for crumbs of love from some unfathomable stranger. It all seemed so wonderful.

Into this atmosphere came hundreds of Max Bodenheims. The great poet of our day was Harry Kemp and one of the outstanding philosophers was Will Durant, a young fellow who was at Columbia University. Max Eastman was already fabulous. Emma Goldman, Alexander Berkman, the amazing Hapgood brothers, Art Young—who can remember all the names that we youngsters gazed upon and wondered how anybody could be so wise?

When 1917 came, I went to Russia to save the world for democracy. So I missed the 1920's when the Village reached its zenith and decay. Therefore I never knew such characters as Max Bodenheim and Ben Hecht. Each generation believes in its own superiority and somehow it is impossible for me to believe that their day was as inspirational as mine.

Often Greenwich Villagers came to Peking and Shanghai and one heard of new names. Among them was Max Bodenheim, apparently a wild man, who kissed a thousand lips and wrote about it.

In my day, there were no such folks as Communists. There were, of course, many Socialists of many brands, but regimented minds and regimented personalities were unknown. Even the Socialists believed in liberty. Nobody was afraid of a movement even if he belonged to it. Nobody was afraid.

Orthodoxy of any kind was abhorred, even the orthodox type of liberalism, such as the "New Republic" of Herbert Croly and Walter Lippmann represented. Young men and women permitted their spirits to soar to the improbable and there they found the assurance of a life in which each individual's will prevailed. It was, of course, a perpetual fairyland but it did strengthen one's desire to do things that seemed impossible and to achieve goals that one could not see. And the Village did produce a galaxy of talented men and women.

I do not find a like place these days, or even similar young people. Too many of them have gone to war or expect to go to war. Youth has become accustomed to regimentation. Too many live in the shadow of inevitable disappointments. Too many are fashionable in their ideas. The arts thrive only on dreams and dreamers must never fear.

You're Telling Me

The Boy Scout troop of Bristol, England, has just booted out of their ranks one of their members, an admitted Communist. Those boys certainly did their good deed for the day.

The real "good old days" must have been 1890. A restaurant menu dated that year lists coffee at one-cent a cup.

An Empire State legislator wants New York divided into five separate cities, Broadway, Brooklyn and three suburbs.

Dispatch from Mainz, Germany, tells of two U. S. Navy ice-breakers which got stuck in the frozen Rhine river. Apparently, the two craft were not all they were cracked up to be.

If the price of coffee continues to zoom, says Zadok Dunkopf, the so-called tea party will become exactly that.

Now it's a "displaced nation!" From all reports from Guatemala it seems that South American country should be behind the iron curtain.

Looking At Life —by Erich Brandeis

Of all the mechanisms in this world, WOMAN probably is the most complicated.

The longer I live and the more women I meet, the more I study them, the more I know about them, the more unattractive they become.

Woman in a way is a little like a snail if you will pardon the comparison. Touch her and she draws back into her shell. Try to make her laugh and she'll laugh.

You'd imagine that after being married more than 30 years, to the same woman, I'd be somewhat of an authority on women. I am not. I don't know the first thing about women—and neither does anybody else.

I know a perfectly normal woman with a lovely home, lovely children, a lovely husband and a lovely dog.

She has just about everything that any woman would want, but she is very unhappy.

"Why are you so unhappy?" I asked her.

"Because I feel I haven't achieved anything," she replied. "All I have done is what almost every woman can do—I have married. I have borne children. I keep house for my husband. I belong to a garden club and a couple of women's clubs. I am a fairly good cook and a pretty good mother."

"But how have I justified my life? What am I doing to pay for the space I occupy on this earth? What am I living for?"

I could, of course, tell this woman that she has done a wonderful job and that she has fulfilled her existence to the fullest. But I didn't tell her that. Because this woman has joined that great company of women who have to "express themselves," who have to "give something to the world."

So now she has taken up writing and her heart is breaking—she says—because publishers are not falling all over themselves to publish the flights of her fancy.

She showed me several of the things she has written. They are good. But it just so happens that there are thousands of other women who have ideas, and many of them have put those ideas down on paper—for the world to sit at their feet and worship them.

I asked her WHY she wants to write. "You don't need the money," I said, "and I know you are not crazy enough just to want to see your name in print. So what is it?"

"I want to justify myself to myself," she answered. "I want to show myself that I can be more than just a hausfrau, more than just a mother, more than just a wife."

Again I didn't argue with her. But I thought to myself, what more need a woman be than a good hausfrau, a good mother and a good wife?

Which shows you how old-fashioned I am.

Eva Gabor has just written a book—and found a publisher for it. It's called "Orchids and Salsami"—and here are some of the orchids (or the salsami, I don't know which).

On COOKING she says, "All I ask of food is that it be dead and in a can."

On MEN, "The major thing that divides the European male from the American male is the Atlantic Ocean."

On GLAMOUR: "You may be stretching your torso, massaging your face, sleeping special beauty sleeps, only to discover that all you need is a long cigarette holder."

I wonder whether my friend, if she reads this book might not prefer to be a hausfrau, a mother and a wife rather than a writer.

State To Resurface 42 Miles Of Highways In County

Work Slated On 17 Routes This Summer

More than 42 miles of Monroe County legislative routes will be resurfaced or reconditioned during the summer.

Portions of routes running through both Stroudsburg and East Stroudsburg are included on the list of roads to receive attention during the year.

Other roads run through Polk, Barrett, Stroud, Tobyhanna, Pocono, Coolbaugh and Eldred Townships.

A total of 17 routes will be worked on by local highway department crews, according to an estimate released yesterday by Arthur Dinstel, department chief for this area.

None of the work involved is "contract" work. No actual construction is involved.

The jobs are divided into two major categories—those receiving "surface treatments" and those getting a "re-surfacing."

Routes getting surface treatment are the following:

L. R. 166 for a distance of .92 miles between Stroudsburg borough and Delaware Water Gap borough. An estimated 143 tons of stone and 2,725 gallons of bituminous material will be used for the job.

L. R. 169 between Blakeslee and Mount Pocono. Total miles: 3.53. Material needed: 510 tons of stone; 9,725 gallons of bituminous material.

L. R. 171 in the Cresco area; 1.67 miles using 233 tons of stone, and 4,450 gallons of bituminous mix.

L. R. 458 northward from Canadensis using 66 tons of stone and 1,250 gallons of bituminous material for 47 miles of road.

L. R. 560 between Kunkletown and Kresgeville for .92 miles using 114 tons of stone and 2,175 gallons of bituminous material.

L. R. 45017 northward from Marshalls Creek toward the Pike County line for 7.28 miles requiring 783 tons of stone and 14,950 gallons of bituminous material.

L. R. 45018 north of Ananokink for 3.86 miles total using 417 tons of stone and 7,950 gallons of bituminous material.

L. R. 45034 eastward from Swiftwater for 1.60 miles total using 198 tons of crushed stone and 3,773 gallons of bituminous material.

L. R. 45040 near Long Pond. Total miles—9.52 using 1,028 tons of stone and 19,625 gallons of bituminous material.

L. R. 169 within Stroudsburg borough (Fifth St.) for .68 miles using 96 tons of stone and 1,825 gallons of bituminous material.

L. R. 45084 within East Stroudsburg (King St. area) for 47 miles using 88 tons of stone and 1,675 gallons of bituminous material.

All the above mentioned will receive "surface treatment" work.

In the second category—"re-surfacing"—the following routes will be worked on by local crews.

L. R. 45063 between Effort and Gilbert for 1.78 miles requiring 959 tons of stone and 14,620 gallons of bituminous material.

L. R. 45021 from Sciota to Appenzell for a distance of 3.87 miles total using 1,634 tons of stone and 36,387 gallons of bituminous material.

L. R. 45024 near Pocono Lake for 1.88 miles using 495 tons of stone and 10,586 gallons of bituminous material.

L. R. 45037 near Tobyhanna for 1.85 miles using 1,781 tons of stone and 22,011 gallons of bituminous material.

L. R. 166 within East Stroudsburg (Brown-Ridgeway St. section) for 1.42 miles using 1,296 tons of a "pre-mixed material" similar to that used on the State bridge flooring.

L. R. 167, also in East Stroudsburg (Washington St. from the inter-borough bridge) for .37 miles using 469 tons of pre-mixed material.

Total amount of materials necessary for completion of work on the 15 routes not using pre-mixed material: 8,545 tons of crushed stone and 153,729 gallons of bituminous material mix.

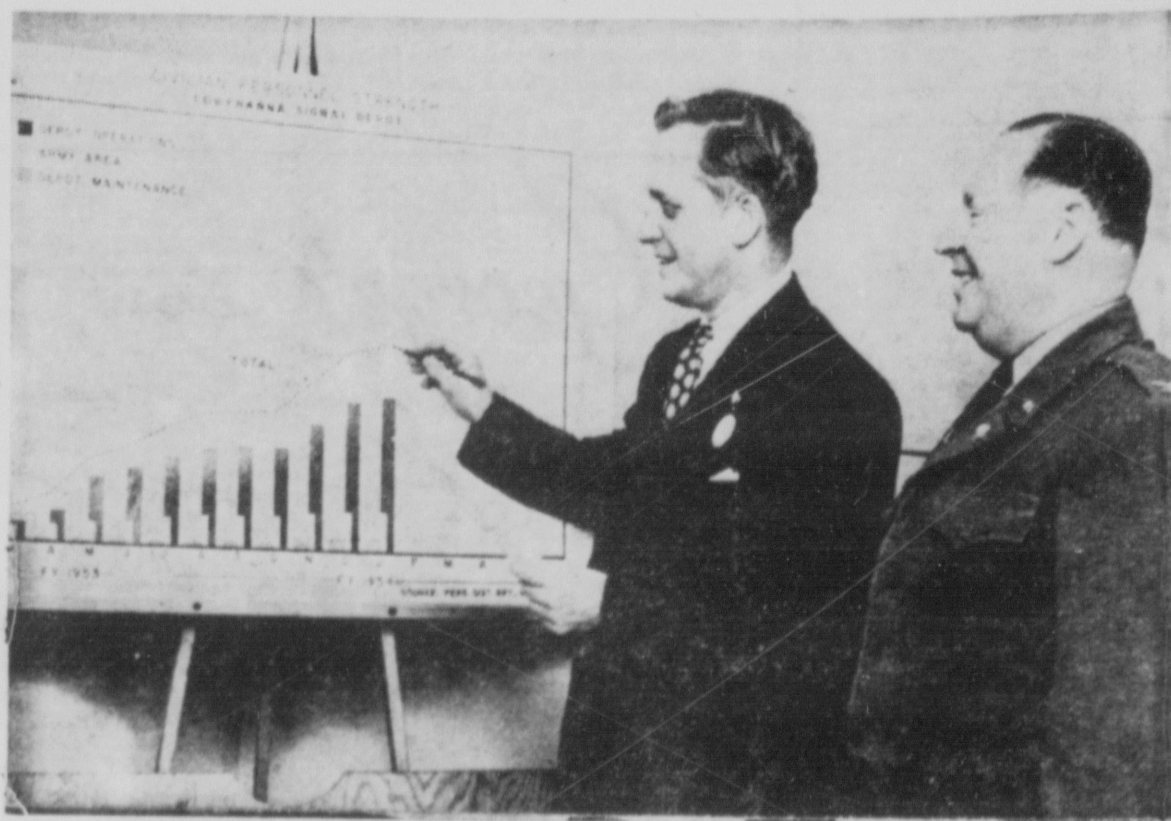

On the two jobs using pre-mixed material total amount necessary is 1,675 tons.

Reckless Driving Charge Preferred

Glenn M. Werkheiser, 18, of 205 N. Ninth St., Stroudsburg, was charged with reckless driving last night by East Stroudsburg police.

Specifically, in addition to the reckless driving charge, he was charged with "cutting off pedestrians from the right hand side of the road" at Milford Crossing, police said.

Werkheiser was set to appear before Justice of Peace Herbert G. Bonser, East Stroudsburg.

17 Per Cent Of Signal Depot's Thousand Employees Are Residents Of Monroe County

Tobyhanna — Employment at the U. S. Army's Signal Depot here has now reached the 1,000 mark, Col. William M. Mack, depot commander, announced yesterday.

Of this number, 171 employees (17.1 per cent) are residents of Monroe County.

Largest number, 417, come from Lackawanna County and next largest, 347 live in Luzerne County.

Other counties: Wayne, 43; Carbon, 14; Schuylkill, 4; Pike, 2; Wyoming, 1, and Lycoming, 1. Depot figures show that 764 veterans and 113 women are employed at the depot.

Col. Mack said that additional employees will be added to the rolls as the depot nears completion and new functions are undertaken. He estimated that ultimately 3,000 civilians will be employed.

"Hiring at Tobyhanna is being done under the procedures laid down by the U. S. Civil Service Commission and all applicants for jobs must meet the requirements prescribed by the commission," Mack said.

He declared that "Hiring under Civil Service regulations is by merit and fitness and not according to residence or political affiliation."

Pointing out that 93 per cent of the depot employees are residents of Lackawanna, Luzerne and Monroe Counties, Mack said he expected a large percentage of additional employees to be hired would be recruited locally.

He said only 161 of the depot's 1,000 employees are transfers of non-residents of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania. They were transferred, he said, so that "the activation of the depot could be accomplished efficiently and quickly." He added "those were experienced employees who were needed to train the hundreds of local people hired by the depot."

The installations from which the employees were transferred and the number hired from each place are as follows: Baltimore Signal Depot, 71; Belle Meade General Depot, 15; Decatur Signal Depot, 7; Lexington Signal Depot, 5; New Cumberland General Depot, 17; Office of the Chief Signal Officer, 2; Signal Corps Supply Agency, Philadelphia, 8; Signal Corps Supply Agency, New York, 1; Signal Corps School, Baltimore, 2; Veterans Administration, Wilkes-Barre, 3.

Bangor Board States Views On Jointure

Bangor — The borough school board went on record last night as unanimously in favor of the "revision of intent" to form a joint school system—but Bangor board members listed their own proposed "amendments" to the outline.

The potential jointure centers on Bangor, East Bangor, Roseto, Upper and Lower Mount Bethel and Washington Townships. There is also a possibility that Portland Borough may eventually express a desire to come in.

During last night's board meeting at Bangor High School, directors put themselves on record on the following issues:

The board feels that the capital expenditure for construction of a new high school building should be based on the market value of each district.

This would mean that each district would pay a share of the costs of building in accordance with the value of assessable real estate as listed on alternate years by the State Tax Equalization Board.

Maintenance costs and current expenses on the other hand, should be shared on a "per pupil population basis," Bangor board said.

The board added one other important stipulation to its proposed amendment of the resolution.

Said the board: A joint high school should be in the process of construction before the entire jointure could be put into effect.

This joint high school would house students in grades 10 through 12. It would be a new building.

The present Bangor High School, the board suggests, would then be rented to the joint school board system for use as a junior high school.

As for how much voice each district should have in governing the joint system, the Bangor board expressed itself "basically in favor of the original resolution submitted in January."

The intent resolution suggested that all matters pertaining to running joint schools be referred to a 14-member "joint committee."

This committee would be made up of five members from Bangor; three from Upper Mount Bethel; two from Lower Mount Bethel; two from Washington Township and one each from East Bangor and Roseto.

The formula used for figuring out this system is the following: One representative would be selected from each school board with one additional member for each two representatives. The board's vote would then be counted as a full single vote in the overall committee.

Discussion of the jointure will be continued tonight at Bangor High School when the six interested boards will meet at 7:30 p.m.

William Schiebel Elected District Boy Scout Head; Committee Chairmen Named

Leaders in Scouting met last night at Stroudsburg Municipal Building to set up committees and map projects for Boy Scouts during this year.

William Schiebel, 1902 N. Fifth St., was named chairman for the Pocono District, consisting of 17 regions.

Mr. Schiebel, an executive in the Tru-Matic Machine and Tool firm, has been active in Scouting many years. He served as a scoutmaster for a period of 11 years; has since filled posts as a troop committee man and troop committee chairman.

In the local area he has served as institutional representative for Scouting organizations sponsored by First Stroudsburg Presbyterian Church.

Named vice chairman for the Pocono District in last night's meeting was Jack Shinn, Echo Lake.

Last night's meeting was the "kickoff session" for the current Scouting year. A series of committee chairmanships were also forthcoming.

Among those named to head committees were the following:

Leadership training—Dr. James Terrill; camping and activities—Jacob Kintz; organization and extension—Dr. Francis B. McGarry.

Advancement in Scouting—Clifford Cramer; finances—Dr. C. J. Naegle; public relations—Joseph Whelan.

Response to the meeting was "very enthusiastic," Schiebel said. Committee chairmen pledged themselves to an aggressive, forward-looking Scouting program for this area, spokesmen said.

Primary purpose of the meeting was to set machinery in motion for work to be done by each of the committees functioning as part of the district Scouting system.

Attending the meeting in addition to most of the committee chairmen named, was William R. Raup, field Scout executive.

MEMBERS OF THE (DANCING) CHORUS. One feature of the forthcoming operetta "The Emperor's New Clothes" will be a dance by a group of local children. They lend visual background for a solo by "The Empress" (Jean Ann Wolbert). Members of the dancing group are Mary Jane Gilpin, Judy Bush, Patricia Everitt, Barbara Hill, Judy Jordan, Mary Ann Ace, Jill Campbell and Sandy Mader. Charles Bruch choreographed the number. Operetta, benefitting the General Hospital Auxiliary, is to be given two nights, Feb. 26 and 27 in State Teachers College auditorium. (Daily Record Photo)

Show Expected To Appeal To Children Of All Ages

All children under 10, except wee ones, will be delighted with Hans Christian Andersen's musically version of the fascinating fairy tale, "The Emperor's New Clothes." They will enjoy the gala costumes, the colorful scenery and the children's dance, with choreography by Charles Bruch. They'll squeal with delight as the three crafty weavers dance and cavort about the stage singing the "Pickpocket" song—"People are so nice."

In the Andersen fairy tale, children play an important part in the story. Jay Johnson's clever lyrics spell out the clue to the climax to the fairy tale: "The Emperor's new clothes will be visible to those who are fit for their jobs and clever, but those who are stupid and dumb and unfit, they won't see a thing no never."

The children in the audience will be quiet as a pin when they hear and see "Empress" Jean Wolbert's unforgettable interpretation of the prayerful Mother's song: "They say mother of one is happy. They say mother of three or four or five finds pleasure all the day every day. They say I am the mother of many—and I must be here when they call; I pray I may have love."

College Students Witness Junior High Council Meet

East Stroudsburg Junior High students went far afield to conduct their student council meeting last night. Instead of holding the regular council meeting in their own school building, students moved to State Teachers College. Here, in the college auditorium, the junior group held a routine council business session before a large audience of STC students. The meeting was a highlight of the regular session held by Thaddeus Stevens chapter of the Future Teachers of America.

With the prospective use of an audience, the 18-member high council discussed routine matters such as keeping school grounds clean, cafeteria regulations, a manners inside the building.

One student was brought before the group as a "traffic offender." The boy was charged with violation of one of the school's rules governing student actions in traffic problems at the school grounds.

After the case was heard, council members "sentenced" the youth to "two nights of washing windows" at the school. On the third night, the council said, a committee would inspect the windows. If there were no streaks visible, the offender would be freed of further "punishment."

Purpose of the council meeting—within-a-meeting was to give future teachers an idea of the working of student government bodies. East Stroudsburg Junior High principal Theodore Miller discussed the organization prior to the demonstration.

Miss Ruth Flory, faculty member at the school, is the student council sponsor and advisor. Council president is Denna Frederick.

Members are elected by popular vote from each homeroom and from four "service areas" in the school, including the library, cafeteria, etc.

Dr. Theodore Moore, dean of instruction at the college, talked on teacher certification. Miss Vivian Amburst sang two selections accompanied by Arlean Bonney.

Work On Pike Project Slated For Mid-March

Harrisburg (AP)—Groundbreaking in the northeastern extension of the Pennsylvania Turnpike is expected by mid-March on a 3.36 mile stretch of road on which bids will be opened on March 9.

The Turnpike Commission set the bid opening date despite the fact that three major problems on the anthracite region extension still remain unsolved.

Commission members have been meeting for days to talk over location of interchanges along the route, the possibility of building a tunnel in the Lehigh area and whether to run the 100-mile road an additional 25 miles to Route 6.

The originally announced termination point of the highway was Moosic, just below Scranton. The extension will branch off the main east-west stem of the Turnpike near Norristown.

The 3.63 mile strip, where first construction on the northeastern extension is likely to start is in Kidder Twp., Carbon County.

The section will begin at a point 108 feet northwest of Route 408 and extend northwesterly to a point about 173 feet south of the Carbon-Lehigh County line in the Lehigh River.

Bid openings for additional stretches of the road will follow as speedily as possible, the commission said.

PTA Leader Gives Advice On Projects

Tobyhanna—Mrs. James Kitchen, president of the Monroe County PTA, was the featured speaker at the meeting of the Cochlaugh Township group on Monday night. She discussed the objectives of the PTA.

Mrs. Kitchen declared that as parents we certainly ought to be interested in what is being taught and how. As taxpayers, she continued, we ought to be interested in how our tax dollar is spent. Parents should respect the judgment of the educator and not try to dictate to the teacher. Rather, she said, they should discuss their children's progress and problems.

In rural PTA's both educational and social interests should be satisfied. She also cited examples of methods used to increase membership in her own local PTA in Tobyhanna Township.

Mrs. Rohrbacher Is President Of Woman's Club

Newfoundland—Mrs. Harold Rohrbacher was elected to the presidency of the Greene-Dreher Woman's club at annual elections Tuesday night. She succeeds Mrs. Fred Hart in the post and will serve for a two-year period.

Mrs. Rohrbacher served the past two years as vice president of the club. Mrs. Cecil Smith was named new vice president.

Other officers elected were Mrs. Donald Barnes, secretary and Mrs. Robert Smith, treasurer. Officers will be installed at the club's annual dinner in March.

In the major item of business of the meeting, the club voted to buy cloth-bound song books for use in the local school. Inasmuch as the cost exceeds the budgeted amount for the annual school project, the club has invited other local organizations to join in the effort to complete it this year. If aid cannot be obtained it is expected that the project will be continued next year.

Mrs. Hart directed the auditing committee, Mrs. Albert Madden, Mrs. Lorimer Brown and Mrs. John Tobey, to check the club accounts prior to the March meeting.

Certain days have a quality of sadness to them -- principally caused by the weather, I suppose. When it comes as yesterday when nature is at her most unattractive anyway, the trees weeping into the mud don't help any.

Even if you haven't any particular reason for feeling sad you begin to think up things that you could feel sad about if you worked on it. Which is why it was such a pleasant coincidence to have it be sewing club day.

The every-day accumulation of papers and magazines tucked away, all the lights burning bright, and a sort of closed-in little company of congenial souls with common experiences to share is a mighty comforting situation.

There are some people geared to the excitement, the stimulation and the challenge of a big city. And some people aren't. There are many days when I'm glad that I'm not. Days of shopping when you know the clerk and he knows what you want. Days of just walking down the street and seeing familiar faces on every side. Days when you listen to the children talk about school and know who they're talking about.

But particularly am I glad on sewing club days.

THE

Wyckoff

SHOPPER

Getting Amy Eilenberger to talk about herself is quite an undertaking. In the first place, she's thoroughly convinced that no one is interested, and anyway, as she says, "I've never done anything worth mentioning." This is definitely a libelous statement, for anyone knowing Amy will tell you that her personal theme song might very well be, "Anything You Can Do I Can Do Better." She knits stunning suits and sweaters, sews, embroiders, and works needlepoint chair covers for many of her prized antiques. She paints too, and, whenever the opportunity presents itself, she dances. "I'd rather do that than eat," she admits.

One of our youngest "old" employees, Amy came to Wyckoff's shortly after graduating from East Stroudsburg High School in 1927. That date is exactly one hundred years after one of her cherished possessions—a cherry cupboard—was made for the forebears of her mother, the late Amy Heller Eilenberger.

Proud of her family's pioneer history in this county, Amy can talk fascinatingly of the Minisink Hills area where her father, the late Fred Eilenberger, conducted a lumber and grist mill during the days when the small settlement was known as "Experiment Mills." This was located on what is now the site of "The Carmen." In those long-ago days, logs were moved raft-fashion down the Delaware to the mills, and sometimes were even taken on down-stream to Philadelphia. Through the years the locality's name changed frequently. At one time it was Minisink, a throwback to its Indian history. Later it was North Water Gap. The Indian name, altered a bit, was re-adopted permanently when a boys' camp was founded nearby.

Amy usually wears simple, tailored clothes, many of which she designs and makes herself. While these are becoming and business-like, there are those who feel that the most flattering attire of all are the dresses she occasionally wears at Wyckoff's anniversary parties—fabulous creations of brocade and silk with fitted basques and sweeping skirts. On such occasions, her brown bob is drawn primly back and large buns of hair are attached at the nape of her neck. The result is so gratifying it is easy indeed to believe that Amy and her sister, Margaret live in a home that's been in their family 150 years and oozes history from every nook and corner. Yellow and blue are her favorite colors, and the great yen of her life is to own a truly beautiful, old cameo. She saw the perfect stone in New Orleans a few years ago when traveling with Wyckoff's contest winners to Guatemala, and regrets to this day that she didn't bring it home.

Amy is one of eight children, and takes vast pride in her three brothers, four sisters, and numerous nieces and nephews.

There is hardly a place in Wyckoff's that Amy hasn't worked at one time or another, and probably no customer who has not been served by her. Her first position was at the soda fountain where she remained for several years until moving into the basement store as assistant to John Bellis, now of Pottsville. In 1932, when Sears Roebuck joined with Wyckoff's, Amy went into gifts; later she transferred to shoes. Then, in 1936, she became head of the notion department which absorbed the art goods department about three years ago.

As Amy puts it, "When I was downstairs I sold toys, pots and pans. But when they made me a department head, it was a case of 'out of the frying pan, into the fire.'" She's not kidding us a bit, however. We know she loves it!

Life of Riley

By JIM RILEY
Sports Editor

It's quite a simple task to hang out reams of copy on winning basketball, but a club that is finding the going tough is a problem of another magnitude. But, the more this scribe watches East Stroudsburg High drop truly heart-breaking court decisions, the easier it becomes to build up a backlog of chit-chat concerning the Purple and White quintet and the manner in which Lady Luck refuses to favor it with at least one of her famous smiles.

True, the Cavaliers are currently gliding along with a mark of seven victories and 12 defeats, but the club is certainly better than its present mark would indicate. Great things were predicted for the East Stroudsburg quintet after it finished as the runnerup in the Lehigh Valley League Invitation Basketball Tournament during the Christmas holidays, but high hopes never quite materialized, although all the narrow margin defeats placed end to end would have Coach Dick Forster's club near the top of the standings.

It is truly heart warming to see members of the East Stroudsburg club playing each game as if it meant the championship, although the club isn't going anywhere in a hurry. To the best of this reporter's knowledge there's no desecration on the club and each trip to the hardwood is a distinct challenge to the players and the youngsters in turn give their all to bring home the bacon. As is natural among scholastic athletes, there may have been a little mumbling and grumbling among the East Stroudsburg players after several contests, but all was apparently forgotten the next day and preparation for a new game got underway.

In the second half of the current Lehigh-Northampton League campaign, a total of five games, the Cavaliers have dropped two one-point decisions. Bangor opened the second half with a 43-41 nod over the Forstermen, then Parkland came along with a 50-49 verdict over the N. Courtland St. eagles in overtime. Wilson, Borough, first ball title holder, came back to nip the Cavaliers, 67-61, and Coplay did the same job on its home floor, 77-71, just before Fountain Hill maintained its unbeaten second half record on Tuesday, 66-63.

A quick check of the figures reveals that the Cavaliers have lost six of their last seven games by a total of 19 points, or slightly more than three per-ball game. This list includes the thrilling 60-56 setback suffered at the hands of Stroudsburg just before the second half of the Lehigh-Northampton League scheduled got underway. The only game won by East Stroudsburg in the second portion of the present campaign was a 79-54 verdict over Phillipsburg, in a non-league tussle. In the past seven games East Stroudsburg has scored 432 points, against 426 for the opposition, yet only won one of the battles.

It's not difficult to remember Wilson's 62-60 victory over East Stroudsburg in the first half of the Lehigh-Northampton League flag race, just before the charges of Coach Sam Russell won the championship. The only close decision the Cavaliers have been able to win this season, to the best of this writer's memory, was the 48-47 nod over Phillipsburg earlier in the present campaign. A bit of luck at one of several spots in the schedule could have the Cavaliers enjoying one of their most successful campaigns in recent years.

Tuesday's contest was a good ball game down the line, although marred by weak officiating, yet the Cavaliers were battling the powerful Fountain Hill contingent greatly outmanned. Co-Captain Joe Chase is on the sidelines with a pair of injured ankles and Paul Turner was out of uniform because of illness. Co-Captain Don Herman actually shouldn't have been playing against the Hillers, but the hard playing forward did his best despite illness. The game had to be halted at one time to rest Herman, who was far below his physical peak. With the odds tremendously against the Cavaliers, they still were capable of playing the league leading contingent on even terms.

The East Stroudsburg-Fountain Hill contest was just another game ruined by below par officiating. I can't say that the decisions made favored one team or another, or even that they were wrong. But, the two men in the striped shirts committed the unpardonable sin of allowing the game to run wild and when they attempted to gain control in the last few minutes, found the task next to impossible. I have screamed for years that passing a written examination doesn't make an official in athletic events, but as of this writing the words have fallen on deaf ears.

Fans of both schools streamed onto the floor and I firmly believe this condition would never have existed if the contest had been under control. Joe Perfetti, one of the area's top athletic fans, is to be complimented for the manner in which he helped to quiet and send the over-anxious supporters back to their seats. It's great to see cool heads like Perfetti's.

ESSTC Girls Lash Panzer In Basketball Tilt, 60-33

Warriorettes Keep Perfect Record Intact

East Stroudsburg State Teachers College girls' basketball team glided to its third straight victory of the current campaign yesterday by taking the measure of Panzer, 60-33. The contest was played on the ESSTC hardwood.

The Warriorettes have yet to taste defeat and own favorable verdicts over College Misericordia, Cheyney and Panzer.

Coach Genevieve Zimbar's pupils exhibited great accuracy in the field goal department and it was two-pointers that carried the Normal Hill lasses to victory, even though they were able to make only eight of 25 charity shots.

Panzer converted nine of 18 shots from the floor, but were badly outclassed in field goals, 25-12.

Upper Hand

The home team held the upper hand from start to finish, waiting off to a 15-8 advantage at the end of the opening round and adding to the total as the contest progressed.

ESSTC held a 19-9 edge in the second quarter and were in front 34-17 at the halfway mark.

The Warriorettes went on to insure victory with advantages of 13-8 in the third and fourth quarters.

Ellian Williams, Nancy Divney and Doris Zerby led the winning offensive with 17, 17 and 16 markers respectively, while Forgeson was tops for Panzer with 11 tallies.

ESSTC returns to action on Saturday, at which time the Warriorettes put their undefeated record on the line against a strong Hunter College contingent. Action is slated to get underway at 2 p.m.

Tickets On Sale For Cover Girls

Probably the biggest basketball attraction of the season in Monroe County, speaking from an exhibition angle, will be held on the East Stroudsburg High court next Wednesday, when the famed New York Cover Girls make their initial appearance in this area.

The Cover Girls will tangle with Frank's Barbers, at 8 p.m., while a preliminary tussle, yet to be announced, will get underway at approximately 6:45 p.m.

Frank's club will be facing one of the toughest girls' teams in the country and certainly one of the most unique.

The Cover Girls annually play the best men's teams in the east and only this season played before 15,000 people in Madison Square Garden.

Well Known

Jane Moffett, former East Stroudsburg State Teachers College basketball and field hockey star and now a teacher in Plainfield, N. J., is a member of the club, which consists of eight players.

Moffett will never be forgotten for her prolific scoring ability in both basketball and field hockey, while a student at ESSTC.

The girls not only play men's rules, but offer halftime entertainment and attract capacity crowds wherever they appear.

Tickets may be purchased from any members of Frank's cage machine and they will also be sold at the door. It is quite possible that tickets may also be placed on sale in local stores this week-end.

Adults may purchase tickets for one dollar, while students will be admitted for 60 cents.

Stroudsburg To Clash With Carbondale In Basketball Wars

Stroudsburg High will play Carbondale's Benjamin Franklin High School in basketball for the next two years, it was decided last night at a meeting of the Athletic Association, at the W. Main St. school.

The Mountaineers will tangle with Carbondale next December 14 and will meet the Pioneers in Stroudsburg in December of 1955.

Negotiations for the game were carried out between Mahlon Serfass, faculty athletic manager at Stroudsburg, and Jackie Swartz, former three-letter athlete at East Stroudsburg State Teachers College.

Reynolds, Yankes Still Out Of Focus

New York, N.Y. — A matter of something like $2,500 is keeping big Alie Reynolds from signing his 1954 New York Yankee baseball contract.

The Oklahoma righthander conferred for more than two hours with Assistant General Manager Roy Haney in the Yankees' Fifth Avenue offices yesterday, with no tangible results.

"We're not too far apart," Reynolds said afterwards, as Haney nodded agreement.

Report

The veteran pitcher is reported asking $40,000 while being offered no more than the $37,500 he supposedly received last year.

"It's reached the point where we have to take the matter up with George Weiss," Haney said, "and we haven't been able to reach Weiss today."

The Yankees' general manager is at the St. Petersburg training camp.

Another salary conference is scheduled today.

Ashburn Agrees To Terms With Phillies

Philadelphia, Pa. — Outfielder Richie Ashburn has returned his signed contract to the Philadelphia Phillies and received a raise, the club announced yesterday.

Ashburn, who hit .330 in 156 games last year, returned the first pact mailed him by owner Bob Carpenter. A club spokesman said the outfielder got back a cut he took last year plus an increase for his fine 1953 performance.

The New York Yankees signed three members of their roster—outfielder Bob Cerv, catcher Charles Silvera and pitcher Al Cicotte. No terms were disclosed.

Cardinals

The St. Louis Cardinals came to terms with five of their players yesterday leaving only seven out of the 1954 fold.

Signing contracts yesterday were infielders Eddie Phillips, outfielder Joe Frazier and pitcher Ellis Deal. The Cardinals' front office also announced first baseman Steve Bilko and second baseman Lou Ortiz had come to terms.

Outfielder Jim Delsing yesterday signed his 1954 contract with the Detroit Tigers.

The Cincinnati club of the National League yesterday announced the signing of Ken Hommel promising young righthanded pitcher from Ridgeview, N.Y.

He will train with the Redlegs at Tampa, Fla., and then will join the Tulsa club of the Texas League.

Wichita Enters NIT Field

New York, N.Y. — Wichita University, second-place team in the Missouri Valley Conference and currently ranked 15th in the nation by The Associated Press Poll of sports writers and broadcasters, yesterday accepted an invitation to play in the National Invitation Basketball Tournament.

Number Five

Wichita is the fifth team in the field for the tournament at Madison Square Garden, March 6-13. Those previously invited were Western Kentucky, Duquesne, Dayton and Louisville. Seven more teams will be selected to complete the field.

Duquesne Wins Easily

Pennsylvania, Pa. — Duquesne University's number one nationally ranked basketball team had no trouble at all last night defeating Geneva, a small upstart district team, 95-59. It was the 21st victory without a defeat for the Dukes and Geneva's fourth loss against 17 wins.

Carter, DeMarco Sign

New York, N.Y. — Lightweight Champion Jimmy Carter of New York and Challenger Paddy DeMarco of Brooklyn yesterday signed a contract at the New York State Athletic Commission for their 15-round title fight at Madison Square Garden, March 5.

Slade Boxes Way To Upset Ring Decision Over Henry

Washington, D.C. — Jimmy Slade, a speedy fellow with a real comeback talent, upset Clarence Henry last night in a closely-fought 10-round bout that put a serious damper on Henry's comeback effort.

Slade, outweighed by seven and one-half pounds at 178½, won 97-95 on one judge's card and 99-91 on the other. Referee Charley Reynolds scored it a draw at 94-94.

Henry, 186, of Los Angeles, never was able to solve Slade's perpetual motion assault. Once, in the ninth, it appeared that Henry was gaining the upper hand, but Slade came back with a flourish in the 10th to seal the decision.

No Knockdowns

There were no knockdowns during the nationally televised bout, witnessed by a sparse crowd of 617 who paid $1.585.

The victory was real vindication for Slade, the Norfolk, Va., lad who lost a split decision to Harold Johnson, the number one lightweight contender, in his last outing.

Henry, in semi-retirement for 18 months, had won both his efforts handsily since re-entering the ring.

Three Important Court Tilts Listed For Mountains League

Three important basketball games are on tap for the Pocono Mountains League today, two of which will have a direct bearing on first place and one which will break a deadlock for last place.

In each case action gets under way at 8 p. m.

Norton Oil Cuts Crowe's Bowling Lead

Crowe's Insurance is still leading the Delaware Valley Bowling League, but Norton Oil cut one game from the advantage held by the East Stroudsburg Keglers last week.

Norton's Oil won three points from Bethlehem's Central Bowling Academy, while Crowe's club was earning a 2-2 split with the troublesome Fleas Club, at Harmon's Recreation.

Third Place

Pat Kiddie Shop fought its way back into third place by sweeping four points from the fading Phillipsburg Elks.

Capuro's Cities Service pennant hopes were dashed by Riegel Ridge, as the latter picked up all four points. Capuro's club was knocked into fourth place.

Crowe's five returns to action on Saturday in a match with Central Bowling Academy, in Bethlehem. The match begins at 8 p. m.

Tannersville

Another battle that will have a direct influence on first place is the struggle between Gray's Chevrolet and Johnson's Diner, on the Pocono High hardwood, in Tannersville.

Gray's club is undefeated in second half play, while the Diner contingent dropped its first tussle of the second half on Monday, to Williams Pharmacy. Gray's cagers tied the Harmony Five for first half honors in the circuit.

West End and I. B. Miller Builders, unable to win a contest in the second half thus far, will battle on the Coolbaugh High court, Tobyhanna. The winner of this encounter will vacate the last place spot in the present standings.

Pocono Tames Stroudsburg Junior High

Tannersville—Pocono High's Junior varsity basketball squad rolled to a convincing 55-26 victory over Stroudsburg Junior High yesterday, here on the winning team's home court.

The host aggregation moved into an early lead and protected its front running position by outscoring the Mountaineers in every period.

Pocono held a 12-5 lead at the end of the first period and was on the long end of a 25-8 count at the halfway mark.

Certain Victory

The host aggregation came back in the second half to make victory certain by building advantages of 11-9 and 19-9 in the third and fourth quarters respectively.

Stroudsburg made good on only eight of 20 foul shots, while Pocono converted seven of 14 free throws. Farley Peechatka led the Pocono attack with 11 counters, while Ted Williams was the big gun for Stroudsburg with seven markers.

Poconos Battle Grand Theater Today

Stetler, Steele Match Scoring Ability

One of the better attractions in the Blue Mountain Basketball League this season will take place at the East Stroudsburg High school gymnasium today, at 8 p. m. The contest will send the Stroudsburg Poconos against Grand Theater.

The Poconos are currently holding down second place in the standings, while the Grand Theater is number five in the list of seven clubs.

Stroudsburg owns two favorable decisions over the Grand Theater thus far this season, but the fifth place organization has been playing outstanding ball of late and is expected to turn today's struggle into a nip-and-tuck affair.

Top Scorers

The game may develop into an individual scoring battle between Henry "Hank" Stetler, Stroudsburg's forward, and Ray Steele, center for Grand Theater.

Stetler tallied 64 points against Portland on Tuesday night, while Steele has registered 103 markers in the past three games, including 40 against the same Portland organization.

Grand Theater, coached by Walt Stem, will probably open tonight's tussle with Harold "Hair" Staples and Ray Mery at the forward slots and Steele at center. Russ Staples and Jack Bergman will undoubtedly launch the game at the guard posts.

Coach Tom Shiffer's Poconos will have Harvey "Hotsey" Bergman and Stetler at the forward positions; "Big John" Possinger, center, while the two guard posts will be divided between Tom Somers, Paul "Muff" Warnick and Jim "Bunky" Smith.

No admission will be charged for the contest, but a collection will be taken during the course of the game.

Amoco Cagers Triumph Over Athletic Club

Johnson's Amoco evened its basketball rivalry with the East Stroudsburg Athletic Club at Stroudsburg High school on Tuesday night, by a 50-49 margin. Each team has now won one game against each other.

A strong second half enabled Johnson's cagers to pull the game out of the fire, after the Athletic Club held a 24-23 lead at the half-way mark.

Scoring

The Athletic Club held an 11-10 edge at the end of the first period and each quintet scored 13 points in the second quarter. The Amoco five came on to win the game with a 15-12 advantage in the third quarter, even though the Athletic Club held a slim 13-12 edge in the fourth round.

Felker and Jack Anthony, with 18 and 10 tallies, respectively, led the winning attack, while Charley Reid and Dick Zukowski were the big guns in a losing cause, with 15 and 13 markers each.

Beautiful And Brainy--That's New Film Star Elaine Stewart

BY ARMAND ARCHERD

Central Press Correspondent

Hollywood — One of Glamorville's future queens plans to hit the big time via common sense rather than calendar sex. She's Elaine Stewart, unique in Hollywood's batch of beautiful best bets for stardom—she is not a platinum blonde, she has no mystery romances, nor mysterious past, Despite these "fallings," she'll probably be a glamor queen.

Elaine Stewart

In the "good old days" it seemed that the main requirements for a screen glamor queen were a cupid's bow mouth, a leopard-skin upholstered convertible, gallons of heady perfume and the ability to swoon.

These requirements have been slightly altered with the Monroe Era—with most studios searching for a gal who approximated Miss Monroe's characteristics—if the gal didn't have these attributes the make-up departments manufactured them. However, not so with Miss Stewart and her studio bosses.

She is a "heads-up" gal who knows the values of publicity and can ferret out a newspaperman from a crowd of dozens—but she also realizes the value of good performances on the screen. She is an example of how brains and beauty can combine to make the cinematic grade.

"Let's Not stress that 'brains' angle too much," she quickly says. "Brains in a woman scare men! All I did to further my career was to use common sense."

Like Miss Monroe, Elaine started out as a model—but only after she was an usherette in a Montclair, N. J., theater where she decided to be a movie queen. Unlike Monroe, Stewart didn't wait around for jobs until the starvation point where she'd "have" to pose in the nude.

"I found out early," she says, "that jobs don't fall into your lap. You have to go out and find them—and there's plenty of competition for top modelling jobs. However, I got off on the wrong foot."

"I knew nothing about the profession when I got an appointment to see the top man in the business, Harry Conover. I laid out the make-up, eyebrow pencil and rouge an inch thick. This I thought was glamor. He took one look at me, told me to go home and wash my face, then come back!"

However, after this false start, it didn't take Stewart long to catch on to the game—even developed some of her own tricks once she found she had what was called "natural beauty."

"I rode the bus to interviews," she laughs, "but got off a couple of blocks before my stop—walked the rest of the way, so I arrived with a natural 'glow.' Of course, I had to make sure it wasn't too long a walk or I'd show up wilted!"

When La Stewart arrived in Culver City for her contract, she was already known on film—although by still photographs, as "The Most Beautiful Cover Girl in America," but she was happy to take "basic training" with the starlets on the lot who were making their debuts before any type camera.

Her willingness to accept a tiny role—in The Bad and the Beautiful, set her on the road to bigger things. It wasn't her small performance in this film, however, which got her the sole female part in Take the High Ground, and now an important part in Brigadoon.

While things were slow at the studio during the latter part of '53, she was sent out on a "good-will tour," something which most players foolishly turn down. She toured New England with the studio's product, met exhibitors, press, and most important, the public via interviews, radio and TV shows and personal appearances.

This was a far cry from the good old days when no glamor gal would appear in public—even in daylight. And, at the same time, a lot of unemployed actresses were spending their time around pool-sides or night clubs.

"I just considered it working on

Pocono Resort Association Meets Tonight

A meeting of the Eastern Pocono Resort Association will be held tonight at Regina Hotel.

Time for the meeting was set at 8 p.m., according to F. D. Jacobs, executive secretary of the group.

Donald King Gives Address

Donald King of East Stroudsburg spoke on "Treasure Hunting." The subject as a scientific procedure was divided into three parts: electronic equipment, extensive research and boundless energy and persistence.

my career," she said. "And how lucky you can be to find out about it at this stage—before you make important mistakes!"

Nowadays, there's no such thing as resting on the laurels of your last film. Glamor today means more than being photographed alongside a swimming pool. And no one cares that Stewart lives in a plain apartment and drives an ordinary used car.

"Today," the beautiful Stewart says, "being an actress is both a business and a profession. There's no time or place for unnecessary tricks."

However, it sure helps if you've got the beauty and "build" of an Elaine Stewart.

Cole Suggests Atomic Uses For Defense

By J. M. Roberts Jr.
Associated Press News Analyst
Rep. W. Sterling Cole (R-N.Y.) has come up with some vital supporting matter for the Eisenhower administration's new concept that it is safe for the United States to begin to shift the center of gravity of its defense arrangements from manpower to atomic weapons.

The chairman of the Senate-House Atomic Energy Committee, in the course of giving the public more details than it has had before suggested that atomic weapons may now be developed as anti-aircraft defense.

"It is entirely within our capacity," he said, "to guard all our vulnerable approaches to the North American continent with interceptor squadrons and guided missiles armed with atomic warheads, and to have these warheads in such position that an enemy seeking to penetrate our defense would confront a barrier of atomic fire-power."

The congressman probably will get an argument on that from air defense experts who have been saying that it would be impossible to intercept anything like all the enemy planes set against this country in event of a major attack.

The wider field of effect of atomic warheads certainly would make the task a lot easier.

At the same time President Eisenhower was suggesting to Congress that the atomic energy security laws be relaxed sufficiently to permit instruction of America's allies in the use of the new weapons.

He was not suggesting that they be supplied, or be told how to make them. Merely that they should be prepared to handle them if a time should arise when America's security required their help in atomic war.

Certainly if Canadian planes should be involved in America's defense, if the British and French are to defend the bases from which American bombers will launch atomic retaliation, they should be immediately capable of using whatever the last word in weapons may be.

Congressman Cole is not too specific about whether all the new weapons he is talking about are on hand or on order, how many of them are fully developed and how many of them are still in the test model stage.

He hinted, for instance, that the hydrogen bomb is a far more effective weapon today than it was 28 months ago when it was effective against an area of 300 square miles.

Of course, no amount of data and estimates of efficiency will settle the argument as to whether atomic warfare has come into its own or whether the United States still needs the bestest and the mostest of land and sea power as well. Only the final grim test will do that.

ESHS Junior Demonstrates Tesla Coil

Judson (Jud) Diehl, 16, a junior at East Stroudsburg High School, explained and demonstrated the "tesla coil" he built before Stroudsburg Kiwanis Club yesterday afternoon.

Alfred W. Munson, program chairman, presented Ralph Burrows, East Stroudsburg High principal, who in turn introduced the speaker. Burrows paid high tribute to Diehl for his high scholastic and extra curricular standing in the school.

The "tesla coil" generates over one million volts of electricity from its secondary coil and no one is endangered during its operation as Diehl demonstrated. The young man explained various details of the operation of the coil. A number of Kiwanians participated in the demonstration.

Diehl, a physics student with an eye on atomic engineering, informed the club he spent about two years in research and four months in actual construction of the machine which stands about three feet high. He expressed his appreciation of assistance given him by his parents and numerous friends who donated materials making the project possible.

LeRoy Mikels, chairman of the finance committee, presented the audit for 1953 which showed the club in good financial condition and also the budget for 1954. Final action will be taken on the budget at next week's meeting.

Dr. Earl Willhoite and Numa J. Snyder were in charge of the music. Dr. C. W. Dupee, president, welcomed John Hughes, of Allentown, a guest.

Leutze's Historical Painting Attracts Increased Interest

One of America's best loved historical paintings, "Washington Crossing the Delaware" by Emanuel Leutze, celebrates its second birthday near the site it depicts in Washington Crossing Park, Bucks County, Mrs. Ann Hawkes Hutton, of Hawkes Hill, near Bartonsville, said yesterday.

Mrs. Hutton is a member of the Washington Crossing Park Commission, an author and historian. She disclosed the painting is attracting more student and teacher groups constantly. Said Mrs. Hutton: "The total figure of a quarter of a million visitors is an encouraging sign of increasing interest in the patriotic message of this inspiring painting."

Originally loaned to the Washington Park Commission for a two year period by the Metropolitan Museum of Art in New York City, Washington's Birthday, 1954, marks the end of the period.

The park commission recently requested an extension of the loan. A one year extension of the loan has been granted.

Painting is now hanging in the Washington Crossing Methodist Church. This Sunday a special Washington's Birthday service will be held at 10:30 a. m. with wide public participation expected.

The conversations, it was understood, also involved the possibility of channeling federal patronage through the state Republican chairman. In this connection, there has been speculation that Franklin H. Lichtenwalter, former congressman and one-time speaker of the state House of Representatives, might succeed Taylor as state chairman. Taylor, 77, had been chairman since 1942. Lichtenwalter is 44.

St. Cloud Sells 16 Theaters

Washington, N. J. (AP) Operation of 16 theaters in Warren, Hunterdon and Sussex counties has been taken over by Brandt Theaters, New York City, it was announced by Richard Brandt, an official of the organization.

Leases on the 16 theaters, and two others not at present in use, were taken over by Brandt from the St. Cloud Amusement Corp., of Washington, Brandt said. He said the transfer became effective on Sunday. The buildings are owned by the St. Cloud Building Corp., also of Washington. No price was divulged.

Not affected by the transaction are the Sherman Theater in Stroudsburg and the Plaza Theater in East Stroudsburg, operated by St. Cloud.

Theaters involved in the transfer are the Strand, Lambertville; the Barn, Frenchtown; the Hunterdon and Palace, Flemington; Clinton Point Theater; Washington and St. Cloud Theaters; Washington; Belvidere Theater; the Strand, Hackettstown; Boy's Theater, Blairtown; Court Square and Newton Theaters; in Newton; Sussex, Franklin and Sparta Theaters, and Hunterdon Drive-in Theater, near Ringoes.

Theaters not now being operated, but included in the deal, are located in High Bridge and Frenchtown.

Brandt said his organization foresees heavy population increases in the northwest New Jersey area during the next decade, and that this played a major part in his firm's decision to take over the chain.

"We intend to spend about $100,000 in making improvements to the theaters," Brandt said.

With acquisition of the St. Cloud chain, Brandt now operates a total of 130 theaters along the East Coast, from Florida to New England.

Frank L. Fowler, of Hackettstown, general manager of the St. Cloud Amusement Corp., said he will remain with Brandt Theaters in the same position, operating the theaters in New Jersey.

Fowler added that personnel will remain "substantially the same" at all the theaters affected.

Entrance Hall Plays Vital Role In Home

The entrance hall of a home is something more than the shortest route between the front door and the living room.

It should be not only a place for the family to take off wet raincoats, mudcovered rubbers and dripping overshoes, but also an area with the necessary "party glamour" to welcome guests and give them a pleasant introduction to your home.

No one lingers long in an entrance hall but the impression it makes is usually a lasting one. It therefore needs lively patterns and gay colors that will say a bright "hello" to visitors and spark their interest in the home.

If the hall is long and narrow, a plain light color, such as green or blue, will make it seem wider. A grouping of three or four pictures on one of the walls will draw the eyes and make one forget the length of the passage. And do not feel that colors used in the hall have to be the same as those in the living room unless, of course, the hall opens into it.

The entrance hall should not be a catch-all for discarded furniture. If your home is modern, don't put Grandma's Victorian table in the hall. Instead, use a piece that fits in with the decor of the rest of the house.

The closet of the entrance hall should be kept free of accumulations, so that guests can use it easily. If its walls are painted a light warm shade such as salmon or sunny yellow, it won't suffer from a dungeon-like atmosphere. Built-ins can be both decorative and useful in the hall. Shelves of books with bright jackets, for example, will give it a gay air and at the same time provide the extra book space most homes need.

How Creosote Prevents Rot Under Ground

Pine lumber treated with creosote oil has shown remarkable durability under ground.

Wooden pipe lines laid in 1799 by the Manhattan Co., which was Aaron Burr's water supply company, have been excavated in sound condition in New York.

The New York Telephone Co. and the Consolidated Edison Co. used creosote pump logs from Georgia for conduits for many years before pre-cast concrete sections were adopted in 1932.

A total of 2,200 miles of wooden conduits still are used by the Edison company under the streets of Brooklyn and Queens County. The telephone company reports that 3,350,000 feet of wooden casings still are used for its wires under Long Island and Staten Island.

Pump logs were 6-foot lengths equipped with terminals for tight joints. In cross section they were in the form of a 6-inch square with a hole of about 4 inches in diameter bored through the center.

Serious Symptom

A wet basement may indicate deterioration of an entire house. Telltale water marks on foundation sidewalls, little pools of water standing on the concrete floor or evidences of "blots" on floors may indicate leaks, poor ventilation or absorption of water by capillary attraction.

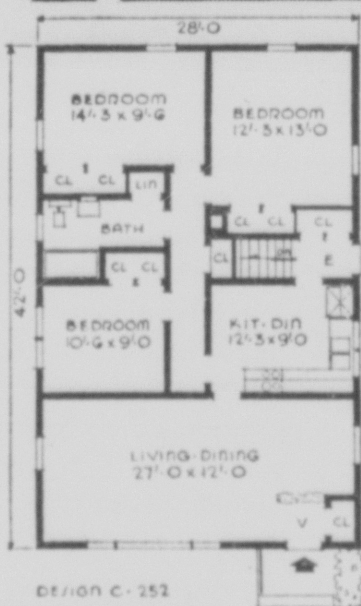

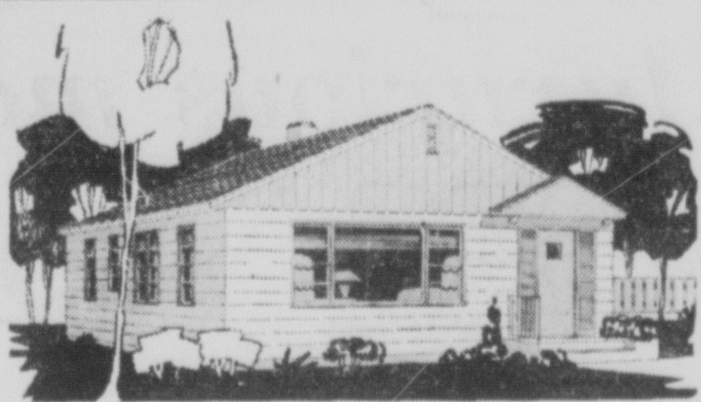

Spots On Wallpaper

Grease stains can be removed from wallpaper and wallboard by placing a piece of blotting paper over the spot and then running a hot iron over the paper. The heat melts the grease so that it can be absorbed by the blotting paper.

Making Table Slide

Dining room extension tables which pull out to receive another leaf don't always open as easily as they should. If your table is balky, try smearing a little petroleum jelly or rubbing paraffin on the wood runners under the table top.

Design C-252. This rectangular floor plan has a gable roof and plain wall lines which mean economy in both labor and materials. The plan calls for a large combination living room and dinette, a kitchen with additional dining space, three comfortable bedrooms, large bathroom and full basement.

An unusual amount of closet space includes wardrobes in the bedrooms, coat closets at each entrance, linen cabinet in the bathroom and an extra closet in the hall. All rooms enter one central hall for privacy and good circulation.

Exterior finish is wide siding and asphalt shingles with wrought iron railing and planting box.

Attached Garage Considered Preferable For Small Lot

A long driveway to a garage at the rear of a house takes up about 16 per cent of a 50x100-foot lot. When building a new garage or carport or in discussing plans with an architect, try to place it near the front of the house within 20 or 25 feet of the street. Here, only 4 per cent of the yard is sacrificed.

If the lot is small but has a side yard large enough to meet local zoning law requirements, the garage should be attached to the house. The attached garage gives rambling lines to the small house. This is particularly pleasing if both garage and house are built of the same material, and harmonize in architecture.

An attached garage should be set back from the house about 6 feet so that a jog is formed and the garage is not too prominent.

Right Technique For Using Brush

When using a brush to apply flat paint, use a semi-circular stroke, allowing the brush to leave the surface on the completed portion of the work. Varnishes and enamels are flowed on. In other words, plenty of material is carried on the brush and even strokes are used to maintain a uniform thickness. Shellac is applied rapidly in straight back and forth strokes.

Removing Decals

Decalcomanias can be removed with a little warm water and a clean cloth. However, if the decal has been varnished over, you'll have to get rid of the varnish first.

For Narrow Windows

Small windows can be made to appear larger by hanging shutters on the outside. If the windows still aren't big enough, replace them with sash divided into smaller panes.

Awkward Nailing

It's a simple matter to get a nail started in an awkward spot if you use a little putty to hold the nail in the correct position and angle until it has been driven far enough in to stand by itself.

The bake sale held by the Young Adult Class at Metzgar's Nu-Way Market on Saturday proved successful. It was reported.

Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Smalley and children Elaine, Karen, Kathleen and Keith, of Johnsonburg, and Elmer Learn, of State College, spent the week-end with Mrs. Ruth Learn and family. Mrs. Learn returned to Johnsonburg with the visitors where she will spend a few days.

TV Styles Blend With Furniture

Communities within the range of television have the advantage of escaping some of the growing pains of TV and benefitting by the experience of centers where video pioneered.

Architects who once wondered whether television would supplant the fireplace have turned comfortably back to the open fire as the newness has worn off the TV set and it has taken its place as the radio did as an occasionally-used entertainer.

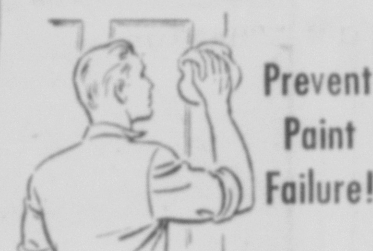

In the meantime designers of television receivers have given the devices suitable sophistication to fit them into the furnishing of comfortable homes. These industrial stylists have turned out varieties of period, contemporary and modern designs in television cabinets in walnut, mahogany and blond finishes, and in a wide range of sizes and shapes.

Period styles of receivers have been designed to fit in with traditional interior—Chippendale, Hepplewhite, Duncan Phyfe, etc. Designers disapprove of placing a modern style television cabinet in a traditional setting on the grounds that it stands apart from its surroundings and detracts from the interior scheme. On the other hand, they approve of the use of a period design in the midst of modern style furnishings, especially if it is of similar wood and finish.

The place for the television receiver in a room is important because it immediately becomes the center of interest when in use and therefore should be placed where it can be operated easily and afford comfortable viewing space. Chairs, sofas, lamps and tables should be grouped in relation to the receiver to make a natural ensemble much in the way wooden benches and rocking chairs were placed permanently around the colonial fireplace.

Roofing Sold By Square

Just as eggs are sold by the dozen and butter by the pound, asphalt roofing is sold by the "square." A square of asphalt shingles contains enough shingles to cover 100 square feet of roof surface.

Prevent Paint Failure!

WIL-BOND before Repainting

A glossy varnished or enameled surface should be cleaned and dulled before repainting. It's easy with WIL-BOND. Just dampen a rag with this liquid and rub down the surface. Oil come wax, grease and dirt—and the gloss is thoroughly dulled. The new finish spreads smoothly and adheres perfectly—no danger of a streaky, unsightly result. Get a can of Wil-Bond today!

Accented Color Best For Closet

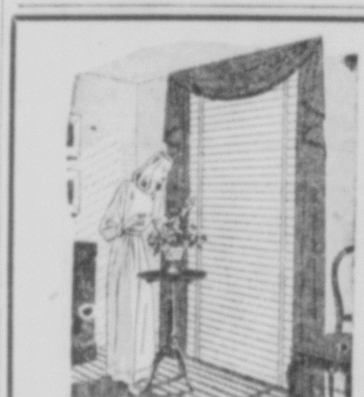

Light pastels or vibrant clear colors will bring gaiety and freshness to any dark closet. For an accented color scheme in a closet, paint walls and ceiling one color, shelves a contrasting color.

If paper is used on closet walls, shelves can be painted a harmonizing color, such as the background color of the paper. This same color trick can be used effectively in kitchen cabinets and cupboards.

Hints On Shopping For New Curtains

When shopping for curtain fabrics, it is wise to figure on yardage twice the width of the space to be covered, so that attractive fullness may be obtained in draping. Curtain-buyers also should make an allowance for lengthwise shrinking, especially if the fabric bears no label showing that it is preshrunk. The buyer also will do well to examine labels indicating color fastness.

If your two-crust pies are soggy, this may be due to the fact that you have failed to make enough small slashes in the top pastry to let the steam out.

Here's a blind that's really easy to keep clean longer!

Water Valve Suggested For Each Facility

When installing new plumbing or extending an old system, plumbers advise home owners to make sure that a valve is included to control the water supply to each piece of equipment so that hot water tank, sink, laundry, tubs, bathroom fixtures, washer, furnace boiler and other equipment can be disconnected for repair without shutting off the entire supply system.

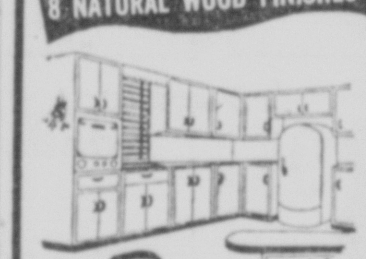

Another recommendation is that all supply pipes be pitched toward one point and have a valve near a floor drain so that pipes can be drained easily without calling a plumber.

Foweling For Curtains

You can make very attractive curtains with kitchen toweling. Besides being pretty and clean looking, they are easily laundered.

Clark Calls For Pacific Defense Pact

New York (AP) — Gen. Mark Clark says he would like to see the United States and the free countries of Asia set up a Pacific treaty organization similar to NATO in Europe.

"Such an organization could have an overall headquarters at Okinawa or nearby and would be open to all countries desirous of maintaining their independence against Communist encroachment," the retired commander of United Nations forces in Korea writes in the current Collier's magazine.

"By setting up a PATO organization, we could wrest the initiative from the Reds and for a change have them worrying over our next move."

He says it is in this country's interest to encourage friendly nationalism in order that free countries may resist pressures from Red China and Soviet Russia.

"I believe the only hope—however slim—for a peaceful solution of the Korean problems is for all foreign forces to pull out," Clark declares. "In the vacuum thus created, North and South Koreans might settle their differences."

Policewoman Offers Program To Reduce Juvenile Delinquency In United States

By JAMES F. HAUGHTON

Central Press Correspondent

Philadelphia—The rapid rise in juvenile delinquency throughout the United States can be reduced sharply if parents at home and communities large and small face the real facts and unite their efforts, a veteran woman police authority believes.

Mrs. Norma B. Carson, chief policewoman, women's division, of this city's juvenile aid bureau for more than 18 years, thinks every city and town in America with a juvenile delinquency problem can solve it with a well-regulated plan of attack.

Mrs. Carson bases her views on experience gained in dealing with more than 3,000 juveniles annually. She suggests a six-point program to reduce juvenile delinquency.

Mrs. Carson's program:

- 1—Closer home supervision of teen-agers by parents.
- 2—Teach children the meaning of obedience as babies so they will respect it throughout life.
- 3—Tighter supervision, and in some cases elimination of corner stores, luncheonettes and neighborhood hangouts which breed delinquency.
- 4—Boys should not be permitted to own cars until they have graduated from high school.
- 5—A more militant effort on the part of church leaders of all faiths to face up to the delinquency problem and to lead the fight against it.
- 6—A big reduction in the constant stream of sex emphasis material which youngsters see and read daily in books, magazines and movies.

Lack of proper home supervision, Mrs. Carson believes, is one of the chief contributors to the increase in juvenile delinquency. She declares children reared in an atmosphere of constant family quarrels, where parents are separated or divorced, or forced to live with relatives, are the innocent victims who become easy targets for delinquency.

"A child's upbringing starts the day it is born," Mrs. Carson says. "If parents don't instill obedience from the start, the child will never learn it. Unfortunately, today's children are seldom punished and don't know the meaning of obedience."

From her own experience, the police officer strongly believes that corner stores, luncheonettes and other hangouts for teen-agers can breed a great deal of trouble unless properly supervised. "Trouble comes easily if parents and police don't know what young boys and girls are doing in these places," she says.

Church leaders can help in the fight against community bad spots, Mrs. Carson declares, if they make themselves aware of local conditions and join with parents and police in cleaning things up. "Cut out temptation and much of the trouble will disappear," she asserts.

While cars are made easily available to high school students and teen-agers, Mrs. Carson sees this as one of the biggest headaches to police units throughout the country.

"You can't keep track of young people when they're off somewhere in a car," she says.

The youngsters of today, the police official notes, now seek sensational excitement to provide thrills. She points out that many of the young girls caught shoplifting in department and specialty stores come from good middle class and upper income families. "They steal for the thrill it provides," Mrs. Carson points out.

Another big problem facing parents is the growing emphasis on sex in books, magazines, movies and other sources easily available to teen-agers, Mrs. Carson says.

The author of 10 books and a former Philadelphia magistrate, Mrs. Carson organized the city's first woman police unit with five members in 1936. As she now retires the unit has increased to 25 members and is rated one of the best in the country.

Bureau Of Rehabilitation Helps Three County Cardiac Patients Find Employment

Three Monroe County residents afflicted with cardiac conditions were retrained and given proper medical services so they could be placed into gainful employment during the past year, the State Bureau of Rehabilitation reported last night.

Thomas E. Williams, manager of the bureau's Wilkes-Barre district, said the three county persons were among 36 from this region and 237 in the state who were assisted.

State-wide the number was ten more than the previous year, and was 68 per cent of the total cases rehabilitated.

"In retraining and preparing persons with heart conditions for gainful employment," Williams said, "the bureau works closely with a physician of the individuals own selection to make certain that their physical conditions are not aggravated in any manner."

Williams pointed out that a careful medical examination of the cardiac condition and general evaluation is made by heart specialists. From this the bureau obtains an idea of the type of employment for which the individual can be prepared. Psychiatric treatment, counseling and guidance are offered and a rehabilitation plan is proposed under strict medical supervision.

Throughout the training the individual is checked carefully to make certain no additional damage is done to the heart and that activities are not too strenuous for the prevailing physical limitations. When the retraining is completed and placement is decided upon, medical authorities are consulted again to make certain the physical capacity of the client is suitable for the job selected.

The average age of these persons accepted for the Bureau's Services was 32 years. There were 69 individuals under 21 years of age; 38 in the age group of 21 to 29 years; 38 from 30 to 39 years; 45 from 40 to 49 years; 41 from 50 to 59 years; and six from 60 to 69 years. Of the entire group 111 were single persons, the remainder being married. When disabled with heart trouble the average age of the group was 22 years.

While 100 persons in the group completed four years of high school, the average individual had only a tenth grade education; 56 never had worked in their lives, 109 had substantial employment previously and 72 had substantial or part-time jobs. When accepted for training by the bureau only 15 were wage earners, 34 were on relief rolls, nine were receiving unemployment compensation, 13 were receiving other types of insurance benefits, 122 were dependent on their families while the remaining 44 were living from their savings or receiving aid from other sources.

Following their placement into gainful, suitable jobs, they earned an average of $47.74 a week. It cost the bureau an average of $364 per person to retrain and place these individuals into gainful employment, thus taking them from various assistance and compensation rolls and making them self-supporting tax paying citizens.
